

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A data input form retrieving system capable of easily finding a desired data input form is provided. A data input form retrieving system is provided with a storage unit for storing plural data input forms containing character strings, a character string extract unit for extracting character strings out of each of the plural data input forms stored in the storage unit, an extracting conditions input unit for inputting the conditions of extracting a specific data input form out of the plural data input forms, and a data input form extract unit for extracting the specific data input form by searching the character strings extracted by the character string extract unit in accordance with the extracting conditions inputted by the extracting conditions input unit.

09836386 "04-1801